EATING HUMAN FLESH

and Carved From the Body of a Murdered Conrade,

Who Was Shot for Stealing Food to Appease His Hunger.

Shocking Stories of Cannibalism Among the Greely Crew.

The Human Heart and Flesh and Lungs All Devoured,

Leaving Only the Clean Picked Bones for Burial.

Amputated Limbs of Live Men as Food—The Horrifying Crime of One of the Crew to be Spared the Horrible Fate Which Private Henry, of Cincinnati, Met—Strenuous Efforts to Keep the Horrible Facts a Secret.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The Times prints the following written documents now in the possession of the Navy Department:

To add to the record of miserable suffering already published in connection with the Greely expedition, shocking stories of cannibalism and cannibalism are told. All the facts have been in possession of Secretary Chandler for three weeks, but have been closely guarded. For the sake of humanity the authorities are now endeavoring to keep the matter hidden.

But the facts will undoubtedly come out. It will be remembered that in Commander Schley's first dispatch to Secretary Chandler announcing the finding of the Greely party, he said: "I would urgently suggest that the bodies now on board be placed in metallic cases here for safe and better transportation in some way. This seems to be imperative." As Mr. Chandler was in West Point the dispatch was answered by Rear Admiral Nichols. He said:

"Use your own discretion about care and transportation of bodies."

Secretary Chandler afterward telegraphed: "Prepare them according to your judgment."

It took some days to prepare the iron cases, which were all built and packed. It was remarked at the time by experienced officers that this would have hardly been necessary for the preservation of the frozen bodies. They could have been kept in wooden coffins. The design was obviously to prevent friends of the dead to be given an opportunity to look at them.

Even soldiers of the relief ships, with the exception of a few who assisted in removing the bodies, were not allowed to see them. When Commander Schley met Secretary Chandler and General Hazen at Portsmouth, on the arrival of the ships from St. Johns, he was much agitated and called the gentlemen into the cabin. Undoubtedly he communicated to them the facts.

THE SUFFERINGS AND PRIVATIONS

Of the men in their graves but during the bitter winter of 1884 have not half been told. It has been estimated that after the Greely party left in February they lived on seal, blubber and walrus. As a matter of fact, they were left alive on human flesh. When the rescuing party discovered the survivors one of them, a German, was wild in his delirium.

"Oh!" he shrieked, as the sailors took hold of him, "don't let them shoot me as they did poor Henry! Must be killed and eaten as they were! Don't let them do it! Don't!"

The sailors were horrified and reported the words to Commander Schley. After a brief investigation he felt satisfied that some of the men who perished had been

STRIPPED OF THEIR FLESH

To keep their surviving comrades alive. He instructed two of three gentlemen, among whom were Dr. Ames, the surgeon of the Bear, to make a careful examination and put their conclusions in writing. This was done and the reports were sent to the department.

Greely was averse to having the bodies of the dead disturbed. He thought it wise, as they had been buried so long, to let them rest and the reports he felt satisfied that some of the men who perished had been and been stripped and the flesh picked from his bones. Even his

HEART AND LUNGS WERE EATEN.

One rib was shattered by a ball, and to another fragment of the rib was attached a bullet hole was in the skin. The body was in this condition when it was interred in the frozen ground of the Arctic.

The letter his friend, Mr. Robert S. Oberfelder, of Sidney, Nebraska, is daily looking for will probably never come to light.

The survivors were left to talk of the horrible experience they had passed through, but after promises of secrecy, their evidence was taken in writing.

Greely said he wished the men had been rescued by the army instead of the navy. Of course it was impossible to keep the actual state of affairs from the crew, but absolute silence was imposed upon them. The officers were not allowed to talk of what occurred in their presence. One man who openly spoke of the men's room about the cannibalism of using fragments of human

FLESH AS MEAT FOR STEAK.

Was severely reprimanded. No word of the facts was given to anybody until Schley made his report.

A reporter questioned a few officers of the Relief Ships at the Navy Department. Some of them asserted flatly that the bodies were not mutilated when found, and scouted cannibalism. Others admitted that the bodies were shocking to look upon, but attributed it to the storm and ice. The remains were wrapped in clothes as soon as possible, and some of the party did not see them at all.

SCHLEY REFUSES TO TALK.

Schley declined to have anything to say about the bodies more than in his official dispatch.

"Did you see Henry's body?" he was asked. "Of old did he die?"

"Starvation or scurvy I believe."

"Do you know where he was shot?"

"I am not prepared to answer that question," said the commander curtly. "As furthermore, I positively decline to be interviewed. When an official inquiry is made into the trip, I shall say what I have to say, if anything, but not before."

Without another word the Commander hurried below.

CONVICTING ADMISIONS.

The members of the crew were more communicative, but conflicting in their statements. Enough was said, however, to confirm some of the ugly stories afloat. At least a dozen admitted to having been shot for stealing food, and one man gave the name of the survivor who was compelled to shoot him. This, however, could not be verified.

But a few of the sailors of the Bear had forfeited their liberty and were not allowed to go ashore. Some of them complained of their treatment on their voyage.

The vessels were not expected to arrive at the Navy Yard Monday, but 500 people and a band were on the pier to welcome them home. The ships attracted a great deal of attention as they slowly steamed up East River. As the hawsers were made fast the crews cheered and gave a rousing cheer for home.

Commander Schley and Chief Engineer Melville were on board and on foot. It was remarked at the time by experienced officers that this would have hardly been necessary for the preservation of the frozen bodies. They could have been kept in wooden coffins. The design was obviously to prevent friends of the dead to be given an opportunity to look at them.

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVE, AUG. 13, 1884.

The Lexington claims of Holt's election are weakening, and one by one are seeking their rights.

SENATOR BEN. HARRISON will open the Republican campaign in Indiana, at Indianapolis, on the 23rd inst.

COLONEL J. R. ALLEN, of Lexington, has resigned the command of the Second Regiment, Kentucky State Guards.

A DESPATCH to the Louisville Times says that the returns received there show Riddell elected by from 100 to 300 majority.

The Lexington Press says that hundreds of negroes voted the Democratic ticket at the election in that city recently.

The election of Riddell affords the Louisville and Lexington papers a fine opportunity to do some scientific cashing.

The Knights of Honor have 117 lodges in Kentucky, and a total membership of 7,000. Kentucky Knights have paid in $84,000 and drawn out death benefits amounting to $60,000 during the last six months.

A DESPATCH from Lexington to the Cincinnati Enquirer gives this Appellate district to Riddell by a majority of 290 votes. [Considering that Lexington is headquarters of the Holt men, and that nothing but unfair statements have been sent out from there since the election was held, this one may be taken as it is favorable to Riddell, as reliable.

The Sheriffs of Ohio have united in an application to the Legislature to enact a law requiring all hangings to be done at the State penitentiary by an appointed executioner. They suggest that no reason exist why every man who accepts the position of Sheriff should be made responsible for judicial killing. The application will, it is thought, be favorably considered.

Who will assert that America is not faithfully obeying the command to increase and multiply population? Statistics show that for the school year of 1883-4, there were 12,433,822 children of school age in the United States, 103,829 of whom are enrolled in the public schools, 6,138,331 being in daily attendance. The last feature of the statement is not encouraging. That with all our efforts to secure an education for the rising generation, that nearly two-thirds of them do not attend school, is indicative that there are mistakes somewhere.

A SUPREME COURT Judge in Iowa trips up the Probationary law of that State by deciding that Justices of the Peace cannot try offenders, because the penalty exceeds their jurisdiction. A Justice can only hold offenders to answer at court. The obvious result is that all cases now on trial must be dismissed, and that about one in every hundred of future cases will turn upon the calendars of 1883-4, there were 12,433,822 children of school age in the United States, 103,829 of whom are enrolled in the public schools, 6,138,331 being in daily attendance. The last feature of the statement is not encouraging. That with all our efforts to secure an education for the rising generation, that nearly two-thirds of them do not attend school, is indicative that there are mistakes somewhere.

SAYS THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER: The charges of the Republican organs that Mr. Cleveland is not the friend of the workmen scarcely require a denial. The workmen of America keep pretty close track of the party leaders, and do not need to be told who among them are their friends and who are not. For the benefit of these newspaper editors who may not know that they are misrepresenting Mr. Cleveland's labor record we reproduce the subjoined from the Utica Observer:

During the first year of his administration Governor Cleveland signed:

1. The bill establishing a Bureau of Labor Statistics.
2. The bill abolishing the manufacture of hats in State prisons and penitentiaries.
3. The Tennessee House Cigar bill (afterward declared unconstitutional owing to defective in the title).
4. The bill submitting to popular vote the question of the abolition of contract labor in State prisons.
5. The Tennessee House Cigar bill (amended to conform to constitutional decision).
6. The bill providing that whenever employers make assignments the wages of employees shall be paid before any other claim.
7. The bill prohibiting the Trustees of Houses of Refuge, correctional institutions, etc., from contracting the labor of the children contained therein.
8. The bill abolishing contract labor in State prisons, penitentiaries, etc.
9. The bill appointing a commission to inquire into the prison contract labor system and report a substitute therefor.

None of his predecessors made as good a record as Governor Cleveland on questions affecting the rights and protection of labor; and workmen know it.

SELLING HER BABY.

Deplorable Resort of a Woman Whose Baby Stood in the Way of Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—About 300 weary immigrants were longing about Castle Garden yesterday morning, when a female voice suddenly was heard shouting: "How much an I bid?" The words were uttered in Russian, and of but few understood her, but all were attracted by the sound, and a number of employees rushed into the rotunda from the dock, where they had been discussing epithets and volutes. There they quickly discovered Josephine Stepanowitch, perched on one of the little stands, shaped like an auctioneer's box, from which the clerks usually inform the bidders that look-garments or letters are waiting for them. The woman held in her arms a one-year-old girl baby, which she intended to auction off to the highest bidder.

"How much an I bid," she again shrieked, holding the little child above her head.

"I'll give a chew of tobacco," responded Detective Gordon in Russian.

"Tell her I'll give her fifty cents," said Chief Kinyo, whose knowledge of the Russian is meagre.

"Two dollars," yelled a Russian immigrant. "Two dollars!" inquired the woman, with the air of a fortune teller, and she gazed disdainfully on the bidder. "Why, gentlemen, this baby is worth $200 at the lowest, and I'm offering it for $20. Look at this child's face, look at her feet and hands—small and pretty. Hold her and see how heavy she is. Won't anybody say $200?"

"Oh shut up!" shouted Josephine. "Two dollars won't buy her little finger. Gentlemen, I'm surprised to see an intelligent set of people. You should realize at a glance that this good point of this baby. Won't any gentleman say $100?"

"This was a snower, and the woman again began to bring before the crowd the fine points of the baby, which was cowering with terror. Meanwhile Mr. Gordon informed Dr. Schultz that an insane woman was in the rotunda. The doctor went inside and coaxed the woman down from the box just as she was informing the crowd that the baby could be purchased for $40, but not a cent less.

The woman is evidently insane. She is unmarried, and about two weeks ago. She has been wandering about the city, but her baby prevented her from procuring a situation, and she declares she wanted to sell it in order to get money to "raise the wind."

HORRIFIED YOUNG MAN.

His Licentious Brutality Rebuked by His Own Blood.

HACKENSACK, Aug. 13.—There was a startling occurrence in Hackensack a few nights since. So closely was the secret guarded that it was only by the merest chance that a reporter gained the meager facts given below:

In the afternoon in question a young lady, the daughter of a highly respected member of the community, had occasion to visit some friends about a mile distant from her own home. At about 8 o'clock she started on her homeward journey. The young lady who is less than twenty years of age, and of rather slender build, had often made the same journey unaccompanied, and in consequence had no fear. There was a full moon, but early in the evening it was obscured by clouds. When about midway between her friend's house and her own the young lady was suddenly seized from behind by the arm of her assailant (for there were two) pinioned her arms the other placed his hand over her mouth to prevent her from screaming. Thus handicapped the girl was unable to defend herself and was dragged into the bushes.

She had scarcely been thrown to the ground when the moon broke through the clouds and a terrible discovery was made.

"Oh, brother! spare me!" the girl cried, and then fainted.

"My God!" ejaculated the terror-stricken young man, "it is my sister." Then he sank down beside her on the grass and cried like a child.

It was some time before the young lady returned to consciousness, and when she did a terrible story told her, and when she was able to stand, accompanied her to her home.

The young lady, upon arriving home, recounted the particulars of the terrible outrage through which she had passed to her parents, but carefully, in order to shield her brother, concealed the facts of the horrible discovery she had made.

The above facts were gathered from an intimate friend of the neighbor, who accompanied the young lady home, and who approached the scene to witness the flight of the two young men, and to recognize both of them although he knew nothing of what had occurred, and had been drawn thither by the groans of the girl.

The father and mother have heretofore been highly respected, and it is thought they are under the influence of liquor at the time.

JOHN McGUIRE.

May go to Higher for His Desire to End Slavery.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 13.—The people in Oldham County are much excited over the antics of a wild man who is roaming about the country. He first made his appearance about sixteen miles from this city a couple of weeks ago, and since that time he has been frightening the women in half the farm houses in the county. The fellow is mad as a March hare, and his mania seems to be a violent kind. He thinks the telephone is sending him all over the country and that it orders him to kill and burn. He has made efforts to burn several barns and farm houses. The man is described as being about fifty years old, pale, thin, dressed, and emaciated, clad by exposure and hunger. He says his name is John McGuire.

The father and mother, and all those who are large will result from his being let run at large.

YELLOW FEVER.

British Ship Doomed to Remain at the Mouth of the Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—Surgeon General Hamilton has advised Dr. Joseph Holt, President of the Board of Health, that he had been informed that the British ship Doxford had arrived at the mouth of the river infected with yellow fever. The Doxford stopped at Havana, on her way to New York, and there one of the crew died with the disease. No other case has occurred on board. The Surgeon General, however, ordered the ship to be stopped before entering the mouth of the river, and accordingly she remained anchored in the Gulf. Dr. Holt promptly informed the captain that the ship was to quarantine the ship would be detained at the station forty days and not permitted to discharge or take on cargo there. It is believed that the Doxford will go into quarantine at Ship's Island.

Workmen's Convention.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—When the Workmen's Convention was called to order the Committee on Permanent Organization reported. Chairman John R. McKee, of Utica; First Vice President, Joseph Delehanty, of Cohoes; Second Vice President, L. J. Green, of Rochester; Secretary, W. B. Moffitt, of Auburn, and John Phillips, of Brooklyn; Treasurer, John Coughlin, of Albany; Sergeant-at-Arms, T. D. Sheeter, of Utica.

Considerable discussion was had over the names of McKee for President. Utica delegates, with two or three exceptions, were in favor of George Blair. But at length the officers were elected as recommended. The Committee on Resolutions made a report, which was adopted.
